

Irish Citizenship (Naturalisation) Application

Visual guide to the 9 stages from submission to passport application

1

Application submission

Submit your naturalisation application with the required forms, fee, and supporting documents. Keep copies of everything you send for reference during later stages.

2

Acknowledgement

An acknowledgement confirms that your application has been received and entered into processing. You may need to wait some time before the next request or update arrives.

3

E-Vetting

When requested, complete the online e-vetting process carefully and promptly. Delays at this stage can slow overall progress, so monitor your email regularly.

4

Garda vetting processing

Garda vetting checks are processed after e-vetting details are submitted. This stage can take time and usually happens without visible updates to applicants.

5

Ministerial decision

After checks are complete, your application moves to a decision stage under the Minister. You may be approved, asked for more information, or refused depending on the case.

6

Approval & payment

If approved, you receive an approval letter with instructions to pay the certification fee. Follow the payment instructions exactly and keep proof of payment for your records.

7

Ceremony invitation

Eligible applicants are invited to a citizenship ceremony after approval and payment are processed. Your invitation includes the venue, date, and any identification or confirmation you must bring.

8

Certificate issuance

After the ceremony, you receive your certificate of naturalisation. Store the certificate safely because it is required for future passport applications.

9

Passport application

Once you have your certificate, you can apply for your first Irish passport. Use the certificate and any other required identity documents to complete the final step.
